GOVERNOR KIBBEY'S DUTY

We are informed that an organized effort is now under way to force Governor Kibbey to surrender the chairmanship of the republican territorial committee. The alleged excuse for this is that it is improper for a federal official to be at the head of a party organization.

We hope that Governor Kibbey will not be seduced or bullied into resigning the chairmanship of his party committee. We can assure him that democrats do not object to the conjunction of the republican chairmanship and the governorship in his person. He is a faithful and true Arizonian and that is why the effort is being made to strip him of the chairmanship of the republican committee.

A gang of traitors and incivilians in the republican party want to get control of the party organization and swing it to the support of joint statehood with New Mexico.

To effect this purpose, the effort is being made to get Governor Kibbey out of the way in order to be able to switch the republican organization to support the policy of joint statehood.

So long as Governor Kibbey remains at the head of the republican organization the people of Arizona will feel reasonably assured that the party of the president in Arizona cannot be used for treasonable purposes. For this reason, it would almost be a civic crime for Governor Kibbey to surrender the chairmanship of the party at this time.—Tucson Citizen.

Ordinarily democrats would be glad to see a shrewd republican politician like Kibbey retire from political management and leadership in Arizona, but at the present time the wish should be unanimous among democrats as well as republicans, who are opposed to joint statehood, that Governor Kibbey retain his hold on the reins of the republican party in this territory. He is known to be in sympathy with the people on the statehood question, and that is the overshadowing and paramount question in this territory today. It is known that some of the republicans in Arizona are trying to work up a sentiment in the territory favorable to joint statehood and should Kibbey retire from his position at the head of the republican organization that fact would then be used as an evidence that he had lost interest in the fight against joint statehood. The New Mexico Joint Statehood league has already threatened Governor Kibbey with official decapitation if he pursues his strenuous opposition to joint statehood, but Kibbey has hurled defiance at the threat and it is not likely that he will now show the white feather by retiring from the republican chairmanship at the request and insistence of those who would be willing to surrender Arizona to the domination of New Mexico politicians.

SHORT-LIVED NOTORIETY

Bearing the good and classic name of Walter Scott, a nondescript miner, has emerged from the depths of the desert to momentarily attract the attention of the world by a flamboyant display of money. The comments on his actions have been as various as the moods of men—light, serious, sarcastic, envious. Mr. Scott's actions have not been without effect in attracting a certain class to whom the spectacular always appeals. To such as these, Scott's meteoric career is forming a basis for day dreams in which the unsophisticated build air castles with nuggets of pure gold scooped from the surface of the earth with none of the hazards ordinarily attending mining operations.

For the correspondents of the daily papers Mr. Scott's movements have furnished material for columns of fiction founded on a few facts and suitably embellished with details derived from the resourceful brain of the reporter. In his zealous efforts to convey the fullest details, one of these writers declared that "Scott had slipped away in the night, gone to Death Valley and returned a few days later with one hundred thousand dollars in greenbacks." This is excellent; though with what equanimity the news was received by Californians can only be surmised. California has usually been generous to those who were successful in braving the terrors of Death Valley and has frequently yielded up gold in quantities amounting to small fortunes, but greenbacks—never.

It would seem almost superfluous to assure those who are not familiar with the usual manner of winning gold from the earth, that the ease with which Scott is reported to be spending money is not to be compared with the laborious processes usually involved in producing the wealth of gold which is annually pouring into the coffers of the nations of the world. On the other hand, neither is the amount of Scott's reputed roll of greenbacks comparable to the dividends paid annually by legitimate mining enterprise utilizing the best brains and energy of professional men. M. E. Cassidy has been duly installed in the Bisbee postoffice. Cassidy had a strenuous fight to get this place, finding it necessary to run over Governor Kibbey on his way to the pie counter.

REPUTATION IMPORTANT

The men who have become successful in the mining world are those who generally have devoted many years to the business. Occasionally we hear of some fellow who has stumbled upon something good, found it under an upturned tree, or at the base of some mountain just as he had given up all hope of ever getting enough to pay off the mortgage of the old home and marry the girl of his choice, etc., but the reward is the result of continued effort, pluck, perseverance and the knowledge of how to do it. There wasn't any luck in the finding of ore at the Bonanza Circle properties. Copper Queen, in the twenty years it had been operating in the Bisbee camp, learned much of the formations. Their underground workings were well known to many miners, and it was not surprising that Capt. Hootson and other well known men in the mining profession took advantage of the conditions as they appeared to those who could read the rocks. The really astonishing thing about it was that others had not taken up these lands long before. Still, we have seen this condition of affairs duplicated many times. Copper Queen already had a big territory in hand and probably concluded it didn't want to pay the price the owners of the claims demanded, feeling assured their future needs were cared for in the ore they already possessed.

The Lake Superior mining men who went into Bisbee are not the kind who find things accidentally. They had learned how to search by reason of long association with the exploring and mining trade. It was the field in which they had been educated, and their good common sense pointed out the way. Theirs was a professional study of the situation, a practical and technical one, combining the very best brains in the copper world.

Naturally, there are those who seek to profit by the wisdom and energy of these men who found the copper in the Bonanza Circle mines and who are developing one of the greatest copper basins known anywhere. They wish to profit by the hard work of these pioneers who have worked a lifetime at mining and whose opinions are well known and respected. Their names have commanded millions of dollars, the public cheerfully paying the calls made because they have faith in the men. It isn't the claims so much as the men who are at the head of the Circle enterprise. They are known to be honest and skillful and there is plenty of money to follow their lead.

So today we are finding brokers listing stocks under the name of the group of mines located in the Bisbee basin and including in this list properties that are many miles distant—anywhere from 40 to 200. The object seems plain to those who have taken the pains to analyze it. It is misleading, and done purposely to mislead. As we stated last week we have received many letters asking the names of the Bonanza Circle mines, as parties have become confused by reason of the lists as now sent out by some of the brokers. We desire to state here that the brokers of Ishpeming are not in the list, they doing business legitimately. We observe, too, that Holman Bros., of Duluth, persist in including all manner of stocks in all manner of concerns under the title "Bonanza Circle," and we have been expecting they would see their error and correct the list as it should be. They are quoting under this title several properties located hundreds of miles away from Bisbee.

We call the attention of our readers to this error in order that they may not be deceived as to the true condition of affairs. The Bonanza Circle properties are in excellent hands, have made a reputation for good work and plenty of capital, and it should not be confused with other properties in other localities.

It is going to prove a great copper producer. It is working night and day, spending money wisely, opening up the rocks, building smelters and getting into shape for a profitable, uninterrupted run of prosperity.

It is a good thing, and the brokers who mix other things with it, know it.—Iron Ore.

"Republican Prosperity," is now a familiar headline on the editorial pages of the republican organs. This particular brand of prosperity is responsible for the trusts and the disappearance of competition in the industries of the country. It is quite likely that the county will have no more of it after the next election.

men. In short, there is nothing so very remarkable about Scott and his acts, after all, and we dare say that after his trip east he himself will realize it. If we were to venture to select the striking feature of the whole matter, we would observe that in this day of our civilization it really requires comparatively little money to make a very spectacular showing.—Mining Report.

For the good of Arizona it is to be hoped that Governor Kibbey will not surrender the chairmanship of the republican territorial committee until the statehood battle has been fought this winter.

The state of Texas does not hesitate in the matter of taxing railroads. The state railroad commission has just advised the E. P. N. E. system that it has been assessed at the rate of $24,483 per mile, and this is only a branch line.

The Albuquerque Journal is working the Tucson Star and the Nogales Oasis overtime in a fruitless attempt to create a sentiment for joint statehood in Arizona. There's nothing doing, however, in this territory along that line. Arizonians are standing pat for just treatment or nothing.

While the Yaquis are talking of smoking the peace pipe with the Sonora authorities it is the advice of the International-American that it will be well for all Americans going into the Yaqui country to "trust in God and keep their powder dry."

The development of artesian water in the Sulphur Springs valley will mean hundreds of prosperous homes for Cochise county in addition to those already here.

In one year more Cochise county will be the largest in the territory, when measured by population, wealth and democratic majority. Now, keep your eye on this prediction.
